VALUE IN ACTION

Issued in July 2015

We believe each child has the ability to give and contribute to the community and society. Values in action seeks to cultivate each child to be a concerned citizen rooted in Singapore. A child with a strong sense of civic responsibility, and takes an active part in improving the lives of others around him.

March

This was the first time the little teachers from Raffles Institution met up with the children. The little teachers came up with a few interesting ice breakers to play with the children. The children had lots of fun and got to know the teachers much better. The children and little teachers were much bonded after the activities. Next, the little teachers also prepared a small, engaging survey which was to find out if the children have the intuition to help others in need.

June

The little teachers met the children for the second time. The main purpose was to teach the kids the meaning of helping, how they can help others, why they must help others, etc. The little teachers also hoped to instill the enthusiastic spirit of helping others into the children.

Actual day event

Packing of goodie bags + Distribution

The much awaited day finally arrived. The little teachers and the children first met up to pack the goodie bags which will be given out to the beneficiaries. Everybody then took the bus to the beneficiaries house to give out the goodie bags. Many children initially felt scared when giving out the goodie bags but after a while they got confident and no longer felt scared. Some were also shocked by conditions of rental houses. Though it was a tiring activity, the children still found it meaningful and many wanted to do it again.

Dylan said: "I feel happy about helping the less fortunate. At first it was scary, but after a while it was okay."
